The Unfolding of Personality as the Chief Aim in Education: Some Chapters in Educational Psychology (Classic Reprint)

By Thiselton Mark

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Unfolding of Personality as the Chief Aim in Education: Some Chapters in Educational Psychology Child-study has more than one kind of fascination. It is part of the study of man; man at a stage when the disguises are few and the self-revelations are many. Nothing more readily focusses for us our interest in humanity. Reading deeply into child-nature we are inevitably beginning to read deeply into life and its meanings. The study of childhood is in itself of universal interest. Opportunities for prosecuting the study are never far to seek. Every school, family, public park, playground, is a laboratory. Crucial experiments are going on whether we heed them or not. The text-book is the child, living out his life before us. The legend which invites us to the study is written in the poetry of free and natural child life: the easy romance, the limitless world of make-believe, and - under even moderately favourable conditions - the spontaneity and the openness of heart and mind. Say Once upon a time to children, and they...
